Metabolizing Labor

Programmed by Margarida Mendes (Portugal) and Jason Waite (USA)

If the body is constantly at work, where can we find moments of stasis that perhaps try to bring the 'double work' of external and internal labor to a halt, or slow down this acceleration. The program explores the ideology of work and its potential undoing through the care found in reproductive labor. What happens when we all collective our sloth, does it make us even slower? Can labor ever be unworked?

Screening Programme:

Simon Gush "Calvin and holiday" 2013, 14min.

Ono Satoshi "Homemade sake" 2001, 49min.
